PREPARATIONS CONTINUE.

Meantime, however, preparations are going forward at the Bailroad Administration for turning the roads back in accordance with the decision announced by Fresident Wilson in his messare to Congress last May. Materials ordered on contract are being obtained as far as possible before the first of the new year. Office contracts of the Railroad Administration contain a thirty-day release clause so that they can be given up at any time without great loss.

Burrender of the roads would make very little difference in actual operation, in the opinion of officials as the lines now are being operated by their own employees, and except for a shift in reports there would be little change. The legal and accounting divisione of the Railroad Administration probably will be materially increased when the roads are surrendered, to wind up the government accounts with the cerporations, but the other divisions will go out of existence quickly, officials stated.

> [BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.] WASHINGTON Dec. 16 .- A bill defining radicalism and designed primarily, Chairman Johnson said, to force the Department of Labor to ar-rest and deport all alien members of tions, was reported to the House to-day by the Immigration Committee

No overt act must be proved in order to bring about deportation as the bill provides that mere membership in or any affiliation with radical organizations shall be a deportable effense.

in or any affiliation with radical organisations shall be a deportable offense.

Explaining that the purpose of the measure "was to make the letter and intent of the law plain and unmistakable," Representative Johnsod introduced letters and records to show that Secretary Wilson had ruled that under existing law mere membership in the I.W.W. did not constitute grounds for arrest and deportation.

Representative Blanton, Democrat, Texas, declared the Department of Labor was "honeycombed" with "the spirit of anarchism" from Secretary Wilson down, and Representative Davey, Democrat. Ohio, warned the committee that the public would take matters into its own hands and "string these wild-eyed radicals to telephone poles throughout the country" unless Congress hastened to act.

Plan Peace Armica.

Sherman Act Suita-NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—The gov-ernment instituted suit today under the Sherman anti-trust law, against several defendants, charging con-spiracy since July 1, 1918, to mon-opolise trade in pulverised and powdered iron. The defendants in-clude the Ironite Company, Mastar Suilders Cempany and United Prod-ucts Company.

lump of lead in the stomach and such distresses make one ponder as to the advisability of starving. But that is a wrong method. A better and safer plan is to be regular at meals, eat what is served or what is tastiest, and follow the meal with a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet. It is a bad practically and the government returns it to private control.

Dyspepsia Tablet. It is a bad practice for most people to go against nature by depriving the system of what it must have—food, to keep going. Once you learn how you may eat without atint or fear by using Stitart's Dyspepsia Tablets, there is little likelihood of your ever joining either that mouraful band of starvationists or any other disjointed and out-of-tune company. Get a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at any drug store in the United States and Canada and thus eat and be merry—radvert'sement.

TUST fancy, Folks! One hundred men coming down to the daily job, stripping off their street clothes, jumping under the shower—hot or cold as you like it—then a brisk rub down and into freshly laundered whities!

That's how we boys at the HOLSUM Bakery begin our eight hours a day. It's some self-starter, I'll say! Makes and keeps us physically and mentally clean and fit. If you could see with what vim we tackle our jobs after that start, you wouldn't wonder why HOLSUM is so uniformly good.

But we bakers who make HOLSUM aren't any cleaner than the materials out of which HOLSUM is made. Every step in the baking process, from sack to wrapper, is just as sanitary and clean as our own preparation for the work. Clean ingredients of highest quality, machinery scrubbed and cleaned daily, flour weighed accurately to the ounce, dough raised under exactly correct temperature, ovens regulated with such skill that no overbaking or underbaking is possible, thirty minutes from oven to wrapper—then on to clean auto trucks and delivered to your grocer for you the same day it's baked.

It's certain, MRS. HOUSEWIFE, that if you will come and see every step of HOLSUM'S making as I see it day after day you will always

It is almost aly found that the employees will "soldier the job" and shock up on the regular in order to get the increased pay for extra time required to do the work it has been shirked if a man takes an arest to his work he will produce; otherse results are not so certain. M 4KE IT UNANIMOUS.

The wonder is that the nine justices of the Supreme Court should be unanimous. that the war is not over. It would seem be a question on which even highbrowed judges might differ. Plain citizens have been doing it right along and minor judges, in both State and national courts, have been deciding both ways—according to their stomeshs and their tempers, as well as the law. But here we are, thirteen moeths after our last shot is fired and with our fighting force all out of France; with Germany surrendering all her war panonly and giving bond for future peaceful behavior—and yet we are still in a state of war. And all because the United States Sensions are still fighting among themselves over the ratification of a peace congenent. We always said there was as much fuss in serving a cool peace as there is in carrying on a warm war. Now if they had left it to the men who did the fighting this thing would have been settled long ago. The delay is in acquiring a civilian peace.

HAYS AND A RESERVATION.

Party leadership is indispensable to party unity. When there is muthy in the general staff there is bound to be dissension. general staff there is bound to be dissension in the ranks. Will H. Hays, chairman of the Republican National Committee, is a notable example of a party leader, as distinguished from a party boss. He is not a seeker after office; he represents no special interests; he is simply head of the Republican national organization and his only interests are those held in common with the fifteen million other members of the party.

Mr. Hays is engaged just now in a can he fifteen million other members of the party.

Mr. Hays is engaged just now in a campaign to create a more lively interest in the country at large in affairs of government. In an address delivered last week in New York he said that "it is indeed passing strange that men and women have to be urged to exercise the first privilege of sovereign citizenship—the right to help govern themselves. Government functions through individuals. These individuals are elected through the process of practical politics, a sequence which cannot be avoided. We can have better government only if we interest ourselves in politics, in the selection of those to whom this government is intrusted, in having thought and voice in its operations and in making our country's affairs our own business.

His address was welcomed with enthusiasm by the Republican press and, naturally, viewed with thinly-veiled hostility by the opposition. The Democratic papers are accusing him of engaging in only destructive criticism, of naming the disease, but not prescribing the remedy, of blaming the Democratic party for acts of providence. To which The Times rejoins that "the struck bird always futters."

Mr. Hays set forth lucidly and vigorously what the Republican party stood for during the recent war and what it stands for on the threshold of reconstruction. His criticism of the present administration was largely by implication only. It was not men but measures that he condemned. When he distinguished between the interests of the "deserving Democratis" and of the country he was performing a public service. He said that the present crisis demands "the patriotism of Abraham Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt—not a patriotism which moves us only when the enemy is at our gates, but a patriotism which moves us to discharge that debt by alding in every way we can to make and keep conditions right in America—and in America first."

It is significant that the Democratic press should finch at that appeal to the patriotism of Lincoln and Roosevelt. The New along in every way we can to make and keep conditions right in America—and in America—first."

It is significant that the Democratic press should flinch at that appeal to the patriotism of Lincoln and Roosevelt. The New York World, one of the leading Democratic papers of the country, published a half-pape editorial a few months ago asserting that "the Democratic party is dead." Its complaint was that the present administration has turned its back on Democratic traditions, that national prohibition was a renouncement of the Democratic doctrines of State rights. The Times is not deeply concerned about the physical health of the Democratic party; but Mr. Hays has given ample evidence that the Republican party is very much alive and that it has not departed from the traditions of its great founders and leaders.

Mr. Hays said that during the war the Republican party stood for three things: "First, for the use of every possible means to win the war; second, for a peace with victory only; and, third, for a same preparation for the solution of the problems of peace." He charged that the present administration left us as unprepared for peace as we were for war. He said: "Every country except America was preparing for peace long before the war ended. We slipped along under this Democratic administration without any adaguate thought of the problems that would confront us until the shock of peace was here, just as we did before we entered the war."

Sketching briefly the alms of the Republican party, he remarked: "Our duty in all these matters is before us, and that duty we shall not shirk. Republicans shall bring this government back to the limitations of the Constitution in time of peace; and well we shall not shirk. Republicans shall oring this government back to the limitations of the Constitution in time of peace; and well indeed may our party give its best thought to the matter, as it has become more apparent daily that the Republican party is the country's only salvation. With all our power we will strive to prevent the further apread of socialism and set the nation's feet firmly once more on the path of progress and along ways which liberty and order must ever guard and preserve."

In the opinion of The Times the best part of the address is that in which Mr. Hays shows that through two Democratic administrations the government has been drifting away from its constitutional moorings and that the drift has been towards radicalism. It is only under a weak govradicalism. It is only under a weak government that strikes can grow to the measure of insurrections against the government itself. Codding radicals for political expediency was certain to breed radicalism. Giving the preachers of revolutionary ideas places in Federal departments is a poor way to stifle revolution.

Mr. Hays condemned without reserve the Democratic policy of government owner-ship. The following paragraph dealing with federalization of industries and Rolwith federalization of industries and Rosshevism would look well in a Republican platform:

The Republican party from its inception has stood against undue federalization of industries and activities. There must be a strong Federal regulation, but not government ownership. We have always endeavored and shall still endeavor to find that middle ground so well defined between "the anarchy of unregulated individualism and the deadening formalism of an efficient and widespread state ownership." The railroad problem will be solved, and solved fairly, with a provision for a just return on real investment with reasonable assurances for essential development and extensions. We are against the form of pedagotic paternalism developed recently in this country. We will not forget that, while we fought in France to make certain the rights of free government in the world, we have a republic to preserve in this country, that we are a representative government and not a Bolshevik syncocountry, that we are a representative government and not a Bolshevik synco-

It is not without cause that the Demo cratic press views such a declaration of principles with hostility. It contains a ring that rallied the Republican cohorts in the great years of Republican triumph in the past. The one criticism that The Times has to offer is that it does not go far enough; that it does not make a specific declaration of all the things for which the Republican party stands. There is no oc-casion for concealment. The Republican leaders should make a frank statement in regard to the peace treaty, as well as to other questions before the country. Victo-ries are not won through evasions. It was to the party that Mr. Hays she that Mr. Hays should declare that opposition to the treaty was in-dividual action and not a party measure. As the leader of the party outside Congress he should have made plain that the rank and file is for an early ratification and that the "bitter-enders" do not represent ele-ments that the Republican party cares to conciliate. Better defeat without them than victory in such company. With this reservation The Times is heartly in ac-cord with Mr. Hays.

In a measure the game of football is a barometer by which we can gauge our progress in educational and material advancement. West of the Rocky Mountains, in the early nineties, there was but one city of any great importance, San Francisco, and there were but two schools of real university standing, the State institution at Berkeley and Stanford. At that date no one of the big four of the East, Yale. Harvard, Princeton or Penusylvania would have condescended to come West for a game. When Stanford was founded a large proportion of the population of our State lived in the counties bordering on San Francisco Bay; as Southern California, Oregon, Washington and indeed all the far Western States were but thinly settled the entireregion was served by the two above universities. When the Stanford team made its first trip to Lee Angeles there was but COOTBALL A BAROMETER versities. When the Stanford team made its first trip to Los Angeles there was but one high school in the entire city, and a team had to be made up from the athletic club to give what feeble resistance was offered to the northern eleven. We don't remember that Berkeley or Stanford went north for football games at that date.

What a difference now! In the past twenty years the greatest material progress made by any section of the entire country has been in Southern California and the northwest corner of Washington. Los Angeles country now has a population about the same as that of the entire State of California in 1890; and our city with Portland and Sesitie now take rank with the great cities of the Union. Each year there come from among our colleges and universities one or more teams capable of giving any eleven on the Coast a close fight. We see this year Harvard, cultured Harvard, welcoming the opportunity to meet a west-coast team; and we believe that after the experience of Brown and Pennsylvania she will take the game seriously, too. However, she will not line up against the blue and gold of California or the cardinal of Stanford, but will meet a very strong Northwestern eleven, which, judging by comparative scores, will not have very much edge on this wastern feature. western eleven, which, judging by comparative scores, will not have very much edge on this year's fighting U.S.C. eleven. As to educational progress, there are now so many strong high schools and higher institutions of learning in the vicinity of our city that the average citizen has lost truck of them; and every Western State has laid the foundations of one or more strong universities. Stanferd and U.S.C. now rank with the best in the country, and the fact that both the presidents of these institutions received their early training in our end of the State is a testimony to the efficiency of our schools. Looking at the football barometer we see a continuation of ball barometer we see a continuation of material and educational progress all over the West—and in the near future a South-ern California eleven chosen to meet and conquer the best of eastern teams at Pasa dena on New Year's Day.

TOPPING THE LIST.

I An interesting study in comparative valuations and tax rates is to be found in a report just issued by the State Controller giving the assessed valuation of California counties and the amount of taxes collected for county purposes. Imperial county has the lowest tax rate in the State, 84 cents on each $100 of assessed valuation; while Riverside county, its neighbor, has a $2 tax rate. Los Angeles county has added $300,000,000 to the assessed value of real and personal property since the war began, an increase of a little more than 30 per cent. In addition to this increase in assessed valuation the county tax rate has been boosted from 80 cents to $1.25 on each $100. This double increase gives the county an income of $2,362,861 more than it received in 1915. in 1915.

The Los Angeles county tax rate is low, however, compared with the other California counties. The average of the fifty-seven counties is $2.035 on each $100. Tulare county heads the list with a rate of $3.35. This is for county purposes only. The city tax rates are not included.

The city tax rates are not included.

Based on a 60-per-cent. valuation, which the assessment is supposed to represent.
Los Angeles county is well on the way to the $2,000,000,000 mark and will pass that figure within the next five years. It is now the wealthiest county in the United States, having already passed Cook county, Illinois, by a wide margin. San Francisco city and county are so far surpassed that comparisons would be painful for our northern neighbors. The increase in the cost of county government is running a close race with the increase in the cost of living. It has advanced about 75 per cent. In the last five years.

A SIGNIFICANT POLE.

While the Senate and the President are still marking time the sentiment of the country in favor of an early ratificati the peace treaty is growing more pro-nounced daily. One no longer asks "Will they ratify"? but "When will they ratify"?

In order to give the doubting Thomases in the Senate an opportunity to know some-thing of the sentiment of the people of Maryland the Baltimore Evening Sun placed ballot boxes in its main and branch offices last week and took a poll on the question of ratifications with and without Senate reservations. In that poll 11,014 rotes were cast for ratification with the League of Nations included and 538 votes

The vote on the question whether the United States should assume the moral obligations required by Article X was 10,612 in the affirmative and 717 in the negative. The result on the question of ratification with reservations that require acceptance

Another hat and another ring!

Such a sentiment among the people in favor of ratification without destructive reservations is certain to make itself felt in the Sonate. Reports from other sections of the country are equally favorable to early ratification with only interpretative reservations. It is to be regretted that the President did not make some announcement as to his attitude towards the treaty in his late message. An indication that he was willing to bow to the will of the majority would have assisted greatly. The friction between the Fresident and the Republican majority in the Senate has reached a point where it becomes perilous reached a point where it becomes perious to society. It is unbelievable that the country is to lose through these personal animosities all that our gallant liberty an animosities all that our gallant liberty ar-mies won in the field.

NOT ALL EDITORS WANT PIE. L. M. White, editor of the Ledger, has been offered an appointment with excellent salary to a place in the Federal government service which would require but a small service which would require but a small part of his time. While appreciative of the offer, he feels it is his duty to decline. Our reason is that to be beholden to any person for favors of this character automatically nullifies the powers of a publication for public good. We have always found editing a paper a maneixe job, one that will not brook division of interests.—[Mexico] (Mo.) Ledger.

"If we could live our lives again," thus sigh the old and wintry mea, "we'd shun the pitfalls and the gims and sidetrack fifty kinds of sins which on our souls have left their sears; we'd hitch our wagons to the stars and strive to reach the higher place and cut out all that's cheap and base. When men are old their dreaming gaze is fixed upon the winding ways that they have walked in long, long years; at every turn some trap appears that they'd have shunned had they been wise, with wisdom of the ancient guys. On looking back the road seems plain, distinct from tangled path and lane, and old men wonder why they trod in bog and quicksand far abroad. "We'd keep away from marsh and fen, could we but live our lives again!" We cannot make the journey twice; one long excursion must suffice; the old old would teach us how to tread, to cross the torrent's alippy bed, to climb the mountain's beetling side, but youth turns deaf of heedless ears to all the wisdom of the seers.

WASHINGTON (D. C.) Dec. 14-The price of silver has recently gon

This fact means very little to the verage American. Even when he is told that silver was worth but 48 cents back in 1914 and that the resent price is nearly three times that figure, he is not perturbed.

that figure, he is not perturbed.

But there is an unusual element in this case. The affiver dellar which is used as currency in this country is worth more as metal than as money when aliver goes above $1.32. When an individual may take a hundred silver dellars and melt them and sell the resulting metal for more than a hundred dellars there are sure to be people here and there who will go into the dellar melting business. As a matter of fact there is no law to interfere with the melting of aliver coin. Anybody who has a dellar and wants to melt it may do so.

ing of silver coin. Anybody who has a dollar and wants to melt it may do so.

So it appears that if silver goes much higher there will be the danger of a large industry growing out of dollar-melting. If such an industry develops it is obvious that silver coin will rapidly disappear from circulation. If the government attempts to replace it the result will be but to increase the material from which the melters may make a profit. Sooner or later the end of the reserve silver supply of the United States would be reached and then, when the coin was melted, there would be none to take its place.

This is theoretically what would happen when silver goes above $1.30 an ounce, or $1.20 to be exact. Of course the price would need to be several cents over that amount to pay for the melting and to yield a profit that is worth the effort. The dollars must be new, also, for old dollars have lost some of their weight. So it is apparent that the metal must be up to $1.35 or better before there will be much melting, it has not quite reached that figure yet.

The government would not worry worry.

It happens, however, that the coinmakers, in the very beginning took a precaution which fits exactly into the present situation. It would be transmitted to know if that action a precaution which fits exactly into the present situation. It would be interesting to know if that action was from foresight or by accident. Anyway, they put less silver in proportion to their value into the subsidiary coins than they did into the silver doflars. Ten dimes, four quarters or two halves weigh exactly the same amount when they come from the mint. But h dollar in any of these subsidiary coins weighs less than does a dollar coin. While silver must be worth more than $1.29 an ounce to affect the dollar coinage, it must be worth more than $1.38 to endanger subsidiary coinage.

sible. During the war there was an embargo on silver. If this embargo were put back the demand would be cut off and the price might turble. Then there is the possibility of prohibiting the meiting of substillary coin. This would discourage the industry. The treasury has many millions of dollars' worth of silver and could readily replace lesser leases. There is much silver in treasury vaults in bullion. There are vaults in New York. Philadelphia, Denver in which gold and silver is stacked up like sacks in a granary. It is measured in tons, in carloads, even in shiploads.

To appreciate the present allver situation one must go back to that 48 cents an ounce in 1914. He must follow the record back and find that the price has played back and forth from 50 cents to 70 cents for thirty years. Never before since 1850 has allver gone above a dollar an ounce. Not since 1856 has it been up to its present price. Until this war came the decline had been constant since the Civil War. Before the Civil War silver ranged regularly around $1.30 to $1.35. It was probably in those days that the present amount of it came to be put into our coins, thus giving them an actual intrinsic value about equal to their face value.

The present beginning to the silver in the silver the same of the sa

The government would not worry much ff the silver dollars should be melted. It has not coined silver dollars for a long time. It may never coin them again. It is about converted to the belief that only subsidiary coins, those of the fractions of a dollar, should be of metal. Unless policy changes the old iron man is destined to take his place with those who have gone before. But the subsidiary coin we must have. Dimes and quarters and half-dollars are indispensable. Were there danger of the silver melters getting busy on subsidiary coins there would be occasion for real worry.

more than $1.33 to endanger subsidiary coinage.

As a matter of fact it will have to be around $1.45 or $1.50 to pay for the trouble, take care of abrasion and pay anything like a worthwhile profit on the melting business.

So the government is not yet worrying about having its dimes and quarters melted. When the point of danger is reached there are several lines of government action possible. During the war there was an embargo on silver. If this embargo

PIGGLY WIGGLY Rnocks (=) out of

A NATIONAL STANDARD governs the operation of each PIGGLY WIGGLY store, and the store system which is a part of the standard is so regulated that a sales volume per store has been developed that is two and one-half times the average of the largest per store sales volume of any other chain store organization, and the store operating cost in producing this volume is less than 5 per cent on sales, which is about one-half similar cost of operating the best managed chain stores and about one-third the cost of the small organizations of chain stores, and about one-fourth the cost of the ordinary retail corner grocery.

Such a store system can save to the consumer through direct buying from producer and eliminating the regular wholesale grocer's profit an average of about $20.00 on every $100.00 purchased from PIGGLY WIGGLY when compared with the purchases made of the regular type corner grocery.

THE MOTHER'S MAGAZINE, OCTOBER, 1918

THE MOT

Yea, PIGGLY WIGGLY is a store. Property speaking, it is a system—a new system of food distribution. As years go, it is not yet old enough to have out more than a few of its first teeth, but its growth has been so phenomenal that already it has sut many of the bonds which hitherto have bound people to wasteful, uneconomic methods of supplying life's first need—food.

Clarence Raunders, the originator of the idea which mothered PIGGLY WIGGLY, was, until two years ago, a wholesale grocer from choice. He had a big business in Memphis, Tennessee, and the bigger it got the more he appreciated the need for changing business methods in the vital matter of food distribution.

The person who had to make a purchase in this line could go to the telephone and stand a first-rate chance of being cheated by buying sight-unseen, or go to the store and stand anywhere from five minutes to half an heur! Even when the purchaser went to the store, there was no certainty about; gotting the article desired. After waiting your turn you were just as apt as not to be put off with "something just as good" as the brand you wanted. In any event, you paid for something more than the food you bought.

In addition, you frequestly lost your temper as well as your money. And you wasted words as well as time, or with words as moconomic system, however viewed. And it set Clarence Saunders to thinking.

The first outward and visible sign of his inward mental revolution was PIGGLY WIGGLY store Number One, opened in Memphis two years ago.

No goods are displayed in its show windows. Their sole purpose is to admit light, just as the chief purpose of the PIGGLY WIGGLY system is to lighten the expense of living. You go through a turnstile and take your pick from a large pile of basises. Then you are faced by long rows of shelves of convenient height, where are ranged, in packages and containers of varying sizes, everything from pickles to flows.

No one mays anything to you and you don't have to say anything to anyone unless you want to. It is as simple as looking out the window or acratching your ear. Here spread before you in neet, clean, tempting array are all the well-known brands of every kind of foodstuff, offered under its manufacturer's name and priced lower than it can be got in any neighboring store.

You pass up one aisle and down another, choosing what you want as you go along, and finally you near the exit turnstile. There behind a counter are two or three clerks. One of them takes your basket, and with the aid of a near-by adding machine, quickly totals the amount of your purchases. These are wrapped, you pay the bill and walk away with what you have bought. And when you

THE SATURDAY EVENING POST, NOVEMBER 8, 1919

"Figures compiled from every part of the country in a recent survey show that the average gross profits on sales made by the corner-grocery stores—and this includes the large downtown grocery stores as well-range round 21%, with the actual cost at 16 to 18%.

When a grocery advertises that it will deliver a loaf of bread or a yeast cake promptly to any part of the city it is probable that many customers of that shop are grumbling at the high cost of living. Because it has been necessary to make the patrons of the store feel that they were gifts, credit and long deliveries could not be charged directly, so they have been spread over the retail price of the commodities sold. Higher and still higher have gone the prices to cover these services.

The backbone of the retail trade is the cash customer. The credit system has been an unmitigated curse. The average grocer cannot afford to assume the functions of a free bank with his customers. When the woman who has been demanding that her dollar be given full purchasing power accepts credit at the grocery it is the same as if she borrowed a dollar from the grocer's working capital to buy commodities in her own store. When she accepts credit she destroys the cash purchasing power of both her own and her grocer's dollars. Free delivery has never been an asset, but always a liability.

One of the rules of the self-serve store is to keep the various commodities always in the same locations. After becoming familiar with the position of the different articles the customer requires very little time for marketing. * *

There is no urging to buy goods in a self-serve store. No telephone or mail orders are accepted. No physical service in assembling the goods and no delivery are given, no checks are cashed and no parcels are held for later call.

The selection made, the customer passes out the exit turnstile. His grocesies are checked and neatly wrapped, he is given an itemized bill, which he pays at the cashier's window, and the transaction is finished.

The idea of the self-serve store is to sell groceries and nothing but groceries, and to reduce in every way ing the service it gives, is able to keep operation costs as low as 7 or 8% against the 12% costs of the chain stores, and the 16% of the corner groceries. Some of these cafeteria groceries claim to have gone below 5%. The total gross profits in a well-conducted self-serve store can easily be kept under 10%.

Nearly all the large cities and many of the small ones now have stores of this type. Memphis has fifteen or twenty, Chicago more than two dozen, St. Louis six or eight, and Washington is to have a chain of seventyfive in the near future. . .

Mrs. Average Housekeeper, who is lucky enough to five in a town that possesses one of these stores likes them and has put the stamp of her approval on them, becaue she finds that there she can get the same quality of groceries cheaper than anywhere else. She doesn't get the service of the corner grocery, but she can save money—something almost everyone is trying to do these days—so she cheerfully carries home the supplies for her family."—Extract from an article in The Saturday Evening Post, entitled "Self Serve Knocke the Money of the Money possible the expense of selling. Mr. Busch stated that the building of roads, telephone lines and trails have been recommended by the Reforestation Committee: $15000 has been appropriated for the collection of seeds, and the Board of Supervisors has purchased 290,000 trees in the Middle West, and 300, 500 pines, now at the county nursers.

This land was independently appraised for us by John C. Moore, appraiser for the Federal Farm Land Bank, of Berkeley and many other large financial institutions: Phil Johnson, appraiser for the Capital National Bank of Sacramento: J. M. Bigger of Stockton, and Geo. Fleming of Sacramento, at a minimum price of $275.00 per acre, are $5,500,000, calculating 20,000 acres. The Company has sold 9,912.02 acres of this land at an average price of $274.74 an acre, and the Company holds sales contracts aggregating $2,223,175.70.

INCOME: The sales contracts bear interest at the rate of 6%, which is more than sufficient to pay the interest on these bonds. The net income from rentals and farming operations for the season of 1918 were $327,503.30, and although complete figures are not available for this year, they exceed the foregoing figure. Subject to future sales, the Company should receive an annual rental of not less than $25.00 for the land lying inside of the these bonds. The net income from tentals and farming operations for the season of 1919 were 324,303.30, and although complete figures are not available for this year, they exceed the foregoing figure. Subject to future sales, the Company should receive an annual restal of not less than $25.00 for the land lying inside of the levees of Reclamation District No. 999, and $15.00 an acre for the 2600 acres lying in the By-pass. A portion of the lands will undoubtedly be rented on a share basis, the Company resceiving 334% of the crop from the bean planting and 35% on the barley planting. At present prices, and prices for delivery during the season of 1920, the rentals on this basis will be from $25.00 to $40.00 an acre.

SOIL AND CROPS: The soil is of a peat and sedimentary formation, very productive and characteristic of the lower Secramento Valley, unusually well adapted to the cultivation of diversified crops, such as beans, asparagus, celery, alfalfa, fruits and high-grade seeds. The entire tract is under intensive cultivation.

TRANSPORTATION: River boats provide freight services to the two large markets. Sacramento and the San Francisco Bay cities. The Oakland, Antioch & Eastern Railway provides transportation for the northern part of the District. The Sacramento-Southern Railway is one and one-quarter piles; east. A modern ferry and approaches, which are nearing completion, will give excellent service to its sait dide, connecting with the concrete State Highway, and thirty minutes by automobile to Sacramento. Fair roads connect the property with main thoroughfares to Sacramento, a distance of ten miles from the northern boundary.

IMPROVEMENTS: Headquarters building and various structures are located at different points for living and operating conveniences of both the Company property are adding their own improvements—a fact which rapidly enhances neighboring values. A private telephone system connects the different units, seventy-five miles of graded roads serve every part of the property, thirty-seven mile SINKING FUND: The Trust Deed provides an annual sinking fund of not less than $100,000.00, commencing January 1, 1921.

RESERVE FUND: A contingent reserve fund of $200,000.00 must be maintained by the Company at all times, to be used only in the event of emergency for protecting against flood, repairing or restoring property in the event of damage. This money is deposited with the Trustee and must be maintained in either cash or securities which are legal investments for Savings Banks. The Company further agrees that the proceeds from the sale of 2600 acres outside land not subject to the direct lien of this Trust Indenture, shall be used for capital development or the purchase of lands inside the levees, which shall immediately become subject to this mortgage or for the account of the sinking fund.

RELEASE PROVISION: Sixty per cent. of all moneys received from sale contracts are to be deposited with the Trustee for the redemption of bonds. No land may be released from the lien of this mortgage unless the sum of $175.00 an acre shall have been deposited with the Trustee for the benefit of the sinking fund. This sum is more than $50.00 in excess of the debt per acre.

Taking into consideration the conservative mortgage, the high character of land, the large earnings, sales contracts aggregating an amount in excess of the bond issue, the reserve fund provision, with the automatic liquidation of the principal by the sinking fund requirements, the satisfactory interest return, we unhesitatingly recommend these bonds for investment.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Relaxed money rates, further pronounced improvement in foreign exchange, and favorable technichal conditions were the principal factors which sudded today's moderately active stock market to materially higher quotations

Banking interests expressed satisfaction at the completion of yesterday's enormous tax payments and other heavy cash transfers without disturbance to the local monetary situation. This was evident in the lower rates for call loans, which ruled at 7 per cent. with a final rate of 6.

Sterling or British remittance rose about 12 cents to the pound over the recent low records and discounts on France and Italy also eased. Dealers reported a marked reduction in offerings of bills on London, and other foreign centera. Much of the day's advance was made at the expense of the shorts, especially in motors, oils, steels and equipments where extreme gains of 2 to 12 points were recorded. There were indications in quarters of the market of an overseld condition.

Ralls were the House and the differences letwer the House and the differences letwer the House and the differences letwer the House and the 2 states amounted to 1,000,000 shares.

Gossip on the exchange dealt with prospective dividend developments in everal active issues, particularly foreign of copper infused moderate strength to metal issues. Convertible or speculative railway bonds were lower with several of the high grade industrials, including United States Steel 6's.

Several of the Liberty issues also yielded to further pressure, with nominal changes in internationals. Total sales (par value) aggregated $25,250,000. Old United States bonds were unchanged on call.
